To Anyone Who Enjoys a Fresh Smelling Environment:

We accepted a FreshAir by EcoQuest for a trial period. In only an hour most of the employees thought the air smelled fresher. The remaining employees were convinced the next morning when they arrived to a clinic that smelled much more clean than usual after twelve hours of no clean-ups.

We were so impressed by the clean air quality that we purchased a unit for our lobby and another one for our isolation area. Veterinary clinics have unique odor problems. We are extremely pleased with the lack of offensive odors in a usually "smelly" room.

A major advertising point of the EcoQuest air purifier is the fact that scientific tests "demonstrate substantially reduced microbial populations on surfaces." While I believe that to be true, I'll leave the proof to the scientists. I don't have to leave the proof of the purer, fresher smell of the clinic to scientists. I can trust my own olfactory senses for that!
