

J.K.

I have a testimony for the Living Water Essentials, concerning my dog (Captain). I got really excited when I listened to the water call last week and there were several testimonies about peoples' pets and the Living Water, similar to what I have also experienced. I am definitely a believer in this alkaline water unit.

My testimony is below. Sorry if it is long, but I felt you needed to know all of it. Our pets are like our children and I know with Captain being as old as he is, eventually his time is going to run out, but if I can do something to keep him around a little bit longer, then it is definitely worth it. If it works this well for our pets, in a matter of weeks, just think what it could do for us humans, if we continue to be persistent. Maybe my testimony will help someone else that is experiencing problems with their older pets. Thanks for the opportunity to tell you about it. The vet told me that hot spots occur a lot in old pets, especially dogs.

We came back from a week long trip and our 17 year old, Great Perinese (Captain), seemed very depressed. We had someone staying at the house taking care of the pets, but Captain went downhill within a couple of days of our returning home. Captain is so large, he was having a horrible time getting up from lying down or sitting position and he could not even walk across our kitchen floor, because it was slick and his back legs could not hold him. He would fall down and then could not get up until someone helped pick up his hind legs and help him walk out to the carpeted area. I even had to leave the back door open to our sun room, because he could not get through the dog door, due to his instability. He also had developed a huge hot spot on his belly and leg that he had been messing with so much, he had licked his leg to the bone and the one on his belly had been licked and bit at so much, he created a hole in it about the size of a dime. We were spraying a bidder spray and anti itch spray on the wounds and putting Cortizone cream all over it, but he would not leave them alone and they were all becoming infected and nasty looking. The vet said we were doing everything right, but nothing was working, he continually bit at them and licked them. I even bought one of those shields that go around their head and he was so disoriented by it, he walked into walls and furniture and seemed to be very humiliated by wearing it.

About 3 weeks ago Captain became very lethargic and would not eat or drink anything. I tried to feed him some broth and put food in front of him and he just lay there and would not touch it. I was so upset and we were sure he was not going to make it through the night. I set up a cot right next to him and I slept outside with him all night because I was afraid with him being outside, the coyotes would come into the yard and get him. I had just received my Living Water Essentials, so in a desperate attempt, I filled his water bowl with 8.5 alkaline water and set it right in front of his face and then I took a cloth and soaked it in acidic water and laid it on his hot spots, hoping to alleviate some of his discomfort. The next morning, I woke up to him licking me in the face. The alkaline water in his dish was completely empty. I immediately started filling the pets' water dishes with alkaline water, not knowing for sure if it was the water that had helped and I continued to soak Captain's hot spots with the acidic water. After just two weeks of drinking the alkaline water, Captain is like a new dog and so is our other dog (Thor, who is 12 years old) and our two cats, who are about 11 & 15 years old. The cats have both become very active and playful (like kittens) and they look very healthy. Captain now goes outside, through the dog door, and runs around without any problems. He can easily get up from lying down or sitting and he is able to walk through the kitchen, and even eat his supper in the kitchen, without falling down. As for the hot spots, they are starting to heal up nicely and he does not bother them. I am continuing to soak them nightly with the acidic water. We have not done anything different, other than changing their water and soaking his hot spots with acidic water. I was going to change their food, but it does not look like that needs to happen now. I LOVE THIS WATER!!

P.S. It has also helped my mom with lowering her blood pressure and her diabetes counts have dropped to where she is taking half the medication she was taking. She is a believer in our products and drinks the alkaline water faithfully, drinks the juice twice a day and takes our nutritional supplements regularly. Her doctor is skeptical about our products, but we will make a believer out of him yet.
